Music Is An Art That Shouldn't Control Us

Although this paper takes a religious concept, it is not a religious paper. Writing this as a non-Christian is for all people to read and understand genre-blurring genres like CCM. In an effort to make this essay not religious, I didn't make any personal or bold comments regarding one standing, I wanted to keep a somewhat neutral feel. Writing this has allowed me to understand the ability to use other people's work in a constructive and meaningful way that builds on a conversation. I have never done a paper in which I had to include so many sources and utilize them in ways that built my argument instead of simply supporting it, it was a very interesting yet useful dynamic.
